

Ophthalmopbblem

John Cheung, MD Sanjay Sharma, MD, MSC, FRCSC

A 42-year-old patient comes to his family doctor with a 5-year history of gradually blurring vision in both eyes, but worse in the left eye. He also complains of intermittently having red painful eyes with the sensation of a foreign body in them.

The appearance of the eye is compatible with the patient's having which of the following?

1. Corneal ulcer
2. Iritis
3. Glaucoma
4. Lattice corneal dystrophy

Answer on page 271

Dr Cheung, a graduate of the Department of Ophthalmology at Queen's University in Kingston, Ont, is currently a Uveitis Fellow at McGill University in Montreal, Que. Dr Sharma is an Assistant Professor in the Departments of Ophthalmology and Epidemiology at Queen's University.